Performance Chart

Overview and Outlook

UAE stock markets ended the month of January on a mixed note as Dubai General Index recoiled by 0.2% while Abu Dhabi General Index increased by 0.3%. The markets witnessed buying interest with the new year and on the sound of the full year good results for the main companies like Emaar, and Etisalat. On the other hand major banks surprised the investors' community as some banks results came over the expectation mainly because of gains from the big DFM IPO in the fourth quarter. At the time core earnings of banks recorded significant growth. However the last two days of the month witnessed a nervous selling pressure that ate up all the gains of the month. The retail investors were nervous because of the uncertainty about the big companies' dividends. The retreat was across the board except for banking and real estate sectors that ended the month in a green territory.

Your fund was able to end the month on a positive note gaining 0.9% underperforming the bench mark by 9bps mainly because of our underweight in banking sector.

In the short term we expect the UAE market to remain range bound in the absence of any major market moving catalyst. In the long term we believe that the UAE valuation multiples are at reasonable levels compared to the emerging markets average. We will maintain our selective approach because we think the markets movements will differ from what happened in the last two years as the fundamentals will play a bigger role.
