Overview and Outlook

The past month your fund has gained 0.27%, even though Global Financial markets continue to be volatile and fixed income markets in particular continued their downward trend we have taken this opportunity to deploy the additional cash we have in high quality higher yielding assets to raise the yield on the fund in the coming months. With regional economies and company fundamentals still in place we believe the regional credit markets are an attractive arena.

Keeping in mind that volatility and liquidity in the credit markets will continue to be a concern that we need to be cognisant of, therefore we have positioned the fund so as to try and minimize market volatility and to take advantage of a possible upturn by year end.
